

Australian fiber optic cable connectors

Summary of Content

Australia offers a wide range of high-performance fiber optic connectors, including LC, SC, ST, FC, and MPO types, with local manufacturers like Diamond Optics providing IEC Grade A performance.

Key Connector Types

- LC (Local Connector): Compact 1.25mm ferrule, ideal for single-mode applications and space-constrained environments .
- SC (Standard Connector): 2.5mm ferrule with push-pull latching, widely used in datacom and telecom networks .
- ST (Straight Tip): Bayonet-style connector, suitable for legacy networks and multimode applications .
- FC (Ferrule Connector): Threaded, heavy-duty connector designed for high-vibration environments, often used in rugged telecom or industrial settings .
- MPO (Multi-Fiber Push-On): High-density connector for multi-fiber applications, commonly used in data centers and backbone networks .

Termination Methods

- Glue-on/Epoxy Connectors: Provide the lowest insertion loss and highest performance but require specialized equipment and are typically factory-terminated .
- Mechanical/Quick Connectors: Pre-polished ferrules allow field termination with minimal equipment. While insertion loss is slightly higher than epoxy connectors, they are suitable for enterprise or non-mission-critical networks .
