

European border fiber optic cable

Overview

The project concerns the completion of the implementation of the Blue-Raman submarine cable system, which is a 12,700 km fibre optic cable that will connect Europe to India, crossing through the Middle-East, and landing in the east coast of Africa along the way. particular in West and Central Africa, as well as Eastern Africa. The cable system could see extensions also ranean will connect Northern African countries to EU countries. An extension of the cabling to West Africa i e the connectivity gap. This visualization tracks the historical evolution of the undersea cable network, global internet peering capacity, and IP allocation dynamics over time. Primary data for modern submarine cables is sourced from TeleGeography. They are significant providers of global internet. Internet Exchange Point — neutral facility where networks interconnect and exchange traffic.
