

How much does a network cable tray cost in the Philippines

Summary of Content

Network cable trays in the Philippines typically cost between ₱1,310 and ₱5,307, depending on material, size, and type.

Price Range and Materials

Cable trays are available in various materials including electro-galvanized steel, stainless steel, aluminum, PVC, and wire mesh, which affect the price and durability. On average, prices range from ₱1,310.24 to ₱5,307.10 per unit, with larger or more durable trays costing more. For example, PVC trays are generally cheaper and suitable for light-duty or home use, while stainless steel or hot-dip galvanized trays are preferred for industrial or commercial installations due to corrosion resistance.

Types and Sizes

Common types include:

- Ladder cable trays – ideal for heavy-duty industrial applications.
- Wire mesh trays – flexible and lightweight, suitable for IT and office setups.
- Perforated trays – allow better airflow and heat dissipation.
- PVC trays – cost-effective for residential or under-desk cable management. Sizes typically range from 60mm to 300mm in width, with lengths around 2.4 meters for standard units. Prices increase with width, length, and material quality.
