

India Passive Optical Network OSFP

Overview

400G and 800G coherent pluggable optics (QSFP-DD, OSFP) are the fastest-growing segment by value, with volumes doubling every 18–24 months as hyperscale cloud operators build out new availability zones in Mumbai, Chennai, and Hyderabad. The India Optical Network Equipment market is projected to grow from approximately USD 2.0 billion by 2035, driven by 5G backhaul densification, data center interconnect (DCI) expansion, and the national fiberization push under the BharatNet program. Rising demand for high-speed internet, OTT streaming, online education. Passive optical networks (PONs) are designed to take advantage of the inherent diversity of traffic in network communications. These fiber-optic access technology can be used for residential and commercial access, data communications, and specific backhaul applications.
