

Price List of Temperature Measuring Optical Cables in Nepal

Summary of Content

Temperature-measuring optical cables in Nepal typically cost between $2,700 and $3,500 per ton, with local market prices influenced by core count, material, and supply shortages.

Price Overview

The average import price of optical fiber cables in Nepal was around $3,357 per ton in 2025, showing a slight decline from previous years, while export prices were higher at $15,200 per ton in 2024 . Locally, vendors such as ITShop Nepal and D-TECH Trading offer 6-core and 12-core optical fiber cables, with prices rising recently due to raw material shortages and supply constraints .

Factors Affecting Price

- Core Count and Material: Cables with more cores (e.g., 12-core) or reinforced materials like FRP or steel are more expensive than standard PVC-jacketed cables .
- Temperature-Sensing Capability: Optical cables designed for temperature measurement often include specialized sensors and coatings, which can increase the cost compared to standard communication cables .
- Market Conditions: Shortages of raw materials, import dependency, and vendor stock levels can cause price fluctuations in Nepal .
