

Price of Standard Configuration of Factory Power Distribution Box

Summary of Content

The typical price of a standard factory power distribution box ranges from approximately $100 to $1,000 depending on specifications and application.

Price Overview

Standard power distribution boxes, used in residential, commercial, and industrial settings, vary in cost based on voltage rating, amperage capacity, number of circuits, material, and safety features. Basic single-phase residential units generally start around $100-$300, while more robust three-phase commercial or industrial units can range from $500 to $1,000 or more depending on durability and integrated features such as smart monitoring or remote control capabilities (Sunnom) .

Factors Affecting Cost

- Material and Construction: Weather-resistant or outdoor-rated enclosures carry higher prices than indoor-rated units (Sunnom) .
- Number of Circuits and Capacity: Higher amperage and more circuits increase cost due to additional components and complexity (Sunnom) .
- Safety and Compliance: Units with advanced safety features, certifications, or compliance with electrical codes are priced higher (PowerBox) .
- Customization: While standard configurations are more affordable, optional customizations like mounting options, labeling, or integration with building management systems can increase the price (Made-in-China)
