

Suriname Long-Term Telecommunication Optical Cable

Summary of Content

Suriname is securing a future-proof international digital backbone through its participation in the EllaLink Caribbean Gateway submarine cable project, providing high-capacity, low-latency connectivity to Europe, Brazil, and the United States.

Overview of the Project

Suriname's state-owned telecom operator, Telesur, has signed a Letter of Intent with EllaLink Ireland Limited to become the first country to formally join the EllaLink Caribbean Gateway, a high-capacity subsea fiber-optic system serving the Caribbean region . This initiative is part of Telesur's long-term strategy to modernize and diversify the country's international connectivity, anticipating the end-of-life of existing regional submarine systems over the next decade .

Technical and Strategic Features

- Capacity and Performance: The EllaLink system offers around 100 terabits per second across four fiber pairs, with ultra-low latency to European hubs, reducing data transmission delays to less than 60 milliseconds .
- Route and Connectivity: The cable provides a fully diverse subsea route connecting Suriname directly to Europe via Portugal, with onward links to Brazil and the United States, complementing existing regional connections such as the Suriname-Guyana Submarine Cable System .
- Design Life: The Suriname branch is designed for a 25-year lifespan, ensuring long-term resilience and supporting digital transformation initiatives through the 2030s .
