Summary of Content

Wibe Group, Nordic Wire Tray (NWT), Meka, and Jeetmull Jaichandlall are key local manufacturers of mesh cable trays in Sweden.

Wibe Group

Wibe Group is a well-established Swedish manufacturer offering a wide range of cable support solutions, including mesh trays, cable ladders, and wall trunking. Their products are designed for both commercial and demanding industrial environments, ensuring durability and ease of installation. Wibe supports applications across sectors such as data centers, chemical plants, offshore wind, and oil and gas industries, providing robust solutions for high-load and complex installations .

Nordic Wire Tray (NWT)

NWT specializes in wire mesh trays and cable ladders with a focus on flexibility and customization. They offer a modern production facility capable of tailoring trays to specific project requirements, including bending, cutting, and shaping for unique installations. Their X-Tray system is noted for long span support, cost-effectiveness, and quick installation, making it suitable for both small and large-scale projects .

Meka

Meka is a Nordic manufacturer with over 40 years of experience in cable management systems. Their product range includes wire mesh trays, galvanized and acid-proof steel cable ladders, and aluminum-frame systems. Meka emphasizes high load capacity, durability, and protection against dust and humidity, making their solutions suitable for industrial environments such as pulp and paper, food processing, and outdoor installations .
