

Vertical pricing for distribution boxes

Summary of Content

Vertical distribution boxes typically range from $50 to $500 or more, depending on specifications, capacity, and features.

Price Range and Factors

The cost of vertical distribution boxes varies widely based on several factors:

- Residential Units: Basic single-phase vertical distribution boxes for home use generally cost $50 to $150, depending on the number of circuits and amperage capacity .
- Commercial and Industrial Units: Three-phase or heavy-duty vertical distribution boxes designed for offices, factories, or data centers can range from $200 to $500 or higher, especially if they include advanced features like smart monitoring, remote control, or weather-resistant enclosures .
- Material and Construction: Metal enclosures are more durable and often more expensive than plastic units. Outdoor-rated boxes with IP protection for weather resistance carry a premium .
- Customization: Options such as specific mounting configurations, integrated busbars, phase selector switches, or labeling can increase the price .
- Energy Efficiency Features: Units with advanced load management or real-time monitoring may have higher upfront costs but can reduce long-term energy expenses .
